Original Poetry.

For the Republican.

I AM THINKING OF THEE.

TO FANNIE.

BY J. G. LONDEN.

I am thinking of thee, far away in the wildwood,
Each bright golden dream returns to me now;
The smile of delight—the fond kiss of childhood,
Can never be swept from my sin-weary brow.
Each throb of my heart calls thee, in beauty,
Back from the beautiful land of the blest
Oh, I deem it a pleasure, and surely a duty,
To first think of thee, who loved me the best.

I am thinking of thee, as I linger in sorrow
Far away from the bustle and turmoil of life;
And longing for thee, in beauty to borrow
An angels bright wings, to bear me from strife—
Leaving each care that the cold world may sow me,
To journey afar where loved ones reside;
Longing for nothing that lingers below me.
And blest with thy love—and thou by my side.

Masquerades.

BY "HONORABLE."

If any apology be deemed necessary for the present communication, consider that the religious and moral sentiment of this entire community, have within the last ten days been scandalized "from centre to circumference." I am no professor of christianity—member of no church nor sect, but I feel under obligations to strip off false masking and raise a salutary note of alarm. And lest it may be said I have a pique to gratify and a temptation to indulge in personalities, I will only quote the testimony of other ages and nation's adding but little of my own.

I think it was Cicero who said he wondered how two heathen priests, conscious of imposing upon the credulity of the people, could look each other in the face without laughing. We may be allowed to wonder how two modern fine ladies, in their exit from a masquerade, can look each other in the face without blushing.

Plato says masquerades raise the passions and prevent the use of them and of consequence are dangerous to morality. Aristotle says, masquerades should be forbidden, they lead to debauchery.

Tacitus says, the German women were guarded against danger, and preserved their purity by having no masquerades among them.

The poet Ovid, himself not too moral, advises the Emperor Augustus "to suppress masquerades as a great source of moral corruption."

Rousseau calls the masquerade "a monument of luxury and effeminacy," and asks "where would be the imprudent mother who would dare to carry her daughter to this dangerous school? And what respectable woman would not think herself dishonored by going there?"

Archbishop Tillotsin calls masquerades the devil's net—a nursery of licentiousness and vice which ought not to be tolerated among a civilized, much less, a christian people.

Dr. Johnston says, "the wise and pious caught the alarm and the nation wondered that it had suffered the irreligion and licentiousness of the masquerades to be acted openly among them."

President Dwight says, "what art, labor and genius are engaged to garnish this gross and dreadful vice? How great a part are mere means of pollution, all the course of exhibition, except a little part thrust in as a sacrifice to decency and reputation (alluding I suppose to the unmasking part at refreshment time) is formed of polluted characters—from the masquerade, men are directly prepared to go to the brothel—the corruption of the one fits the mind to direct its course to the other."

The American Congress soon after the declaration of independence passed the following resolution:

WHEREAS, True religion and good morals, are the only solid foundation of public liberty and happiness.

Resolved, That it be, and hereby is earnestly recommended to the several States to take the most effectual measures for the encouragement thereof; and for the suppression of theatrical representations, horse racing, gaming, masquerades, and such other, diversions as are productive of idleness dissipation and a general depravity of principles and manners.

Dr. Witherspoon, a signer of the declaration of Independence and president of the college of New Jersey, in a published article says, "Where can masquerades be found that are free from impurity either directly or by allusion and double meaning. It is amazing to think that women, who pretend to decency and reputation, whose brightest ornament ought to be modesty, should abet by their presence so much unchastity as is to be found in a masquerade. A modest woman cannot consistently, with decency attend them. No woman of reputation, much less of piety, who has been in one, dare repeat in company all she has heard there? With what consistency they return to the same school of lewdness they themselves best know," It has been but very recently that the Mayors of Philadelphia, New York, Boston and I think Rochester, issued their proclamations prohibiting masquerades, as both, alike against the laws of God and of the land.

Thus we see how moralists and christian divines harmonize in their views of this evil. I, then in raising a note of warning against it only echo the almost unbroken and universal testimony of good men—that masquerades throw a moral Miasma on every community tolerating their presence and polluting tendency.

It took its origin amid the orgies of Bacchus; it was an exhalation from the frantic revels of a periodical national abandonment to intoxication and debauchery: it has retained in all ages a tendency to lead back communities and nations, to the Bacchanalian corruption in which it originated. It is with mingled emotions, then, of shame and scandal, I ask how is it that this gigantic evil, has been introduced and tolerated in our midst, encouraged and sustained too, by many whose religious connection with churches imperatively, empathically, decisively and in no doubtful tone, forbid all dancing and such questionable mixing and coalescing that our daughters "swing the circle," our citizens unblushingly "hand around," and our wives render the science of the light "fantastic toe," with an all "hail fellow well met" to our kitchen maids and those who in the scale of paid caste and in the scale of honor, integrity and position, are at all other times considered so far beneath them as to be unworthy of such a smile of recognition.

In the road to ruin there was never a want of very respectable and fashionable pioneers. The most ultra fashionable and exquisite, if they associate with the mass no where else, have generally not been so "exclusive" as to refuse to walk with them in the broad road. It was once fashionable in a certain place to cry "crucify him, crucify him—away with this fellow from the earth."

It seems almost libellous to assume that in this enlightened age—in this borough of churches and "revivals" any professors of religion could be originators of and patrons in a masquerade.

An English writer in the time of Charles I. made a catalogue of authorities against this evil which contains every name of eminence in the heathen and christian world. It comprehends the united testimony of the Jewish and christian churches the deliberate acts of fifty-four ancient and modern—general, national, and provincial councils and synods both of the western and eastern churches; the condemnatory sentence of seventy-one ancient fathers and one hundred and fifty authors."

With all this in view, it seems slanderous to suppose that members of our churches could so far forget their high obligations, as to abet in any manner this abomination.

If any can so tamper with temptation, if any can so betray the honor of the Saviour—the peace of their churches, and the safety of immortal souls under their influence—they must have acquired a moral obtuseness and hardihood adapted to discourage any effort for their reformation.

Such would do well to remember that they may perhaps be preparing to act as principals in a real tragedy—the most appalling ever exhibited on earth—the tragedy of a hopeless death-bed! From such a final act, in the drama of life may God in his mercy preserve them. To them I would emphatically say "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, evil communications corrupt good manners, whatever a man soweth that shall he also reap. Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness but rather reprove them."

MESSRS. EDS.—Your readers have all heard, in the history of the past, of now and then a great and profound genius suddenly appearing in brilliant light before the literary world, like unto a great comet shooting out amid the myriads of bright stars that sum up the universe, and then as quickly fade out in thin air and nothingness, never again to be looked upon by the same generation of men. All of them have left their names but not the deeds for which they were famous, for us to remember them by; but more excellent still, one has come and left us a snatch of learning far beyond the reach of our wisest men, and it may never be the lot of any in the many cycles of time to come to receive another so great a collocation of irony, satire and ridicule, (what a blessing if they don't) This great effusion we refer to, was published in the Bellefonte National, of January 28th, and was intended to knock the peg from under "Momus," and hang us past all redemption; but we don't choke so easily, and propose, if your readers can stand the torture, to examine into the merits of this extraordinary production. To decline it after a first reading, we would pronounce it very simple, exceedingly compound and infernally complex, and its author must have been in a towering passion, bordering on lunacy, caused by reading of our criticisms, and with gazing at the moon to inspire his muse for that grand poetical finale. Feeling confident that Prof. M., (which stands for either Prof Magee or Prof. Meyer) was the writer then, we are within one of being correct, and will here dedicate this article to both of them, and proceed to point out its finer passages. But wonderful as may be the grammar, and moving the thetorie of this impassioned outburst, we must question, in some measure, its good common sense, or rather its lacking in so important an ingredient. Just notice how high y courageous the following:

"If errors have been committed, it is perfectly right and proper to have our attention called to them so that they may be avoided in the future, yet we should prefer to have a critic assume the task who is of higher authority than "Momus" seems to be—one whose literary qualifications would entitle him to such a position."

Why, Prof. M., you must consider yourself and Institute as infallible as his Holiness, the Pope and his council of cardinals—not to be criticised, or else the foregoing is intended as a little dodging stroke of policy to make the many who were not there, believe that the Watchman and Lock Haven Independent spoke falsely in denouncing it a miserable failure and a disgrace. Now, if those two learned journalists left early, in disgust, could you have reasonably expected "a critic of higher literary qualifications" to have stuck more faithfully by you than we have? To a greater mind it would have been certain death.

How peculiarly frank Prof. M. is in acknowledging that he had not a clear conception of our idea in the exceptional points criticised in that "Synthetical and Analytical Recitation," and how craftily suggestive is his assumption of an opinion for us, which could only emanate from a mind so narrow and manifestly near-sighted as to be incapable of understanding a simple and plain statement of facts.

What a fickleness of memory, or willful misrepresentation is manifest in this doleful attempt to smother up that Captain John Smith sentence:

"John Smith was exploring Virginia when he was taken captive," and states that the latter especially, proved a knotty one—being beyond the ability of the teachers present to unravel. With regard to this assertion, we beg leave to state that either the gentlemen's memory must be grieviously at fault, or he willingly misrepresents the matter, for every one that was present knows that the sentence was correctly analyzed.—A MEMBER."

Why not manfully, Prof. M., the grammarian, tell the public that your analysis of that sentence was knocked into a cocked hat by Mrs. Cl——, of U——, and yourself completely floored? We leave this subject with these assertions, that Prof M. failed to find a single error of ours in that part of our criticisms, and that he was guilty of transposing and perverting quotations from it to build his weak reply upon.

How miserly grand is his economy of words and space on all other subjects; devoting four-fifths of his article to the above, and a paltry space to misrepresenting our remarks upon the "Lecture on Chemistry," in so unmanly and absurd a manner, and maledictive spirit; or if, on the other hand, showing such ignorance of the physiological theory we advanced that in justice to ourself and to enlighten the gentleman, we quote said criticism, and add thereto for his benefit:

"In the lecture on Chemistry, by the same gentleman, we noted the following seemingly absurd tenet: 'that dying we live—living we die' or 'that oxygen is necessary to preserve life, and yet is continually destroying it.' Since the days of Mr. L's chemical authority a more plausible theory has been advanced, that the duration of all animal life is measured and governed by the time of growth, and oxygen instead of a diminution of life is a sustenance to it."

Flourin's theory is, that the natural age of man is one hundred years; but he does not always attain to it, because he eats unwholesome food, gives license to passions, and permits vexatious to disturb his healthy equipoise; or plainer still, he does not die, but kills himself. That the duration of life is measured by the time of growth, and when once the bones and ciphysis are united, the body grows no more; at twenty years this union takes effect in man; in the camel at eight, the jackass at five, and the hare at one. The natural termination of life is five removes from these points, consequently man is entitled to a century of life; the camel to forty years; the hare to five, and the jackass—if five years in growing a member of that class, if an adept in multiplication—which he is not in grammar—can readily see that though "'tis pity, yet, 'tis true," his latter end is nigh.

Prof. M., the last and greatest mistake of yours we point out, is that grand poetical finale:—

"We make no great pretentions to poetry—our experience in that line being quite limited yet we desire to offer a single stanza, hoping that, if in point of sublimity, it should fall beneath the expectations of your readers, they will be charitable enough to remember that the style is accommodated to the subject discussed:

"MOMUS"

In thee, Dame Nature has been foiled,
And human kind been basely cheated;
Her stock of brains was badly spoiled,
When thine to thee she sparing meeted.

A MEMBER."

My boy, although you did, for three weeks, gaze distractedly at the moon for inspiration, memory fooled you in the end, and led you into committing a plagiarism or literary theft from a "Fisher's Valentine," probably sent you long ago by some fair damsel grown weary of your sighs; and to retaliate, politely, to the best of our poetical ability, which, no doubt, is on a par with yours, we offer this little Triplet:

"A MEMBER."

That everybody knows it,
You poor fool are no more a poet
Than is a sheep a go-at.

"Let me see, where was I? oh! yes, 'I left the family asleep,' as the young man said when he eloped with the rich man's daughter.

"Young man, did you ever see the sun rise? Very few of the sickly, sallow-skinned, liver-diseased young men of the present day ever do see that glorious spectacle. John Jones, Sr., and his family were up before the sun, and when old Appollo drove up his fiery steeds harnessed to the fiery chariot in which of old he rode, the young people were all gathered at the door of their humble home to gaze, with admiring eyes, upon the glowing pageant of the heavens. The picture they presented, standing in the open doorway, the pleasing group of happy faces, was beautiful to behold. A modern family gathered in the doorway of a modern mansion, would compare with such a sight, about as a piece of boiled lobster with the glowing glory of the rising sun.

While the girls busied themselves in preparing breakfast, the two elder sons went out in the clearing to take a turn with their axes, just to give themselves an appetite, for it was a holiday in the family, and no work was to be done that day, save what should be done from choice. A few vigorous blows with their axes set the blood to coursing buoyantly through their veins. Then Simon turned to his brother and said:

"'Look ahere, Pete, don't you think father and mother air a gettin' too old to have so much bustlin' around 'em! say! Don't you think me and you had better leave home and set up for ourselees For my part my mind has been sot in the opinion for some time, that the old cabin is a gettin' too full.'

"At this Pete shut one eye and cast upon his brother a quizzical look, and then he said in the words of the thief who was kicked out of the store, 'I think I take your hint sir.' And then he continued, 'but who is she Simon?'

"'Who is she?' returned the other. 'Can't a feller talk about leavin' home, without no she bein' concerned in the matter?'

"'Wall, I reckon a feller could, but I rather 'spect this here feller hain't got no sich intention. Them's only my 'spicions though.'

"'Ouch! your always a 'spectin' somthin,' put in Simon.

"'Yes and generally hitten' too. Now I'll tell you what, you might jist as well out with it. You can talk about the old cabin gettin' too full if you want to, but I see right through cloth as thin as that ere. Instead of botherin' yourself about our old cabin a gettin' too full you air a thinkin' of fillin' up one of your own. Aint you now, my boy?'

"'Wall, to be honest' was Simon's reply, 'I have been a hankerin' for some time, arter,—Pete you wont tell, will you?' and Simon blushed vermillion.

"'Not I Sim; you may tell her yourself,' answered Pete.

"'No, no, I don't mean her; but wan't you tell the rest of the folks?' returned Simon.

"'Now Sim, I'll tell you what, that there depends on whether you air afraid to tell 'em yourself;' and Pete winked and drew down the corners of his mouth with a most comical grimace.

"'Wall then, Pete, I've been a hankerin' arter Jerusha Jane Hunter. What had I better do?'

"'Why go right off and hunt her and tell her what ails you. I guess she kin cure your heart disease.'

"'Do you think, Pete, that Jerusha would have me?' asked Simon with a nervous anxiety.

"'Have you, have you?' repeated Pete, 'Wall ask her and see!'

"'I will to day, Pete, at the party; that is, if—if—and Simon hesitated.

"'If what?' asked Pete.

BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, Feb. 16, 1870.

ADVERTISING.—The Bellefonte Republican has now a Circulation as Large, if not Larger, than the Democratic Watchman, and fully 600 more than any other Republican paper published in the County. Our Merchants and Business Men will please make a note of this.

BARGAINS! BARGAINS!!

The Bellefonte "Republican" and the "American Agriculturist."

We are now prepared to offer to the people of Centre county, a Great Bargain for the coming year. It is this: To every subscriber who will send us $3.00, in advance, we will send the

BELLEFONTE "REPUBLICAN,"

and the

for one year. Of the REPUBLICAN we need not speak at present.

The American Agriculturist is a work that no farmer, nor house keeper should be without. As a farm-journal we think it has no superior in the world—certainly none in the United States. It is issued monthly, and the subscription price is $1.50 per annum. By clubing with the REPUBLICAN you save fifty cents, and secure more good reading matter than you can obtain in any other way for the same money.

We hope the reading public will avail themselves of this very liberal offer.

THE citizens of Fishing Creek, Columbia county, have experienced another rebellion. The school directors ordered a change of books; the citizens objected; school commenced; only one scholar made his appearance; the citizens assembled, and amidst the clatter of drums, tin pans, &c., the teacher was driven away. This is the district where the Democrats raised the noted rebellion during the late war.

GOV. GEARY, in his message vetoing the Philadelphia Police Bill, which bill divided the Police power among six irresponsible persons, to be selected by an irresponsible Legislature, gives the best of argument against that class of fraudulent legislating, which is quite refreshing in these days of corrupt "Rings" and political malfesence in office. No unbiased person after reading his message will say ought against its author.

The bill vetoed gave these six irresponsible persons more power in the State than can be exercised by the Executive and all the Supreme Judges. The message also proves our worthy Governor to be an honest patriot, and Statesman, above aiding in the paltry tricks of Ring-masters and unscrupulous politicians.

IT is a striking feature of the Labor Question abroad that throughout the whole of Europe, and notably in Germany, the co-operative movement displays a tendency towards becoming more political than industrial. Workingmen in Prussia are discussing, in their labor associations, such questions as the abolition of standing armies, the reduction of Government expenses, the removal of all restrictions on industrial pursuits, and the more general distribution of landed property; and in Spain the laboring classes are agitated by almost precisely similar topics. What it will all grow to it is impossible to say, but the tendency of the movement is certainly important.

Thanks.

We feel under many obligations to the farmers and mechanics of this county, for the substantial aid they are giving us, and the good opinion they entertain of the REPUBLICAN, and in return we shall always in the future, as in the past, endeavor to deal justly by them, and with what ability we have, shall aid them and their cause, because we believe them to be right.

Men of means combine together, ask and receive special legislation for their pecuniary benefit, which Legislators are very willing to grant; but the farmers, mechanics and laboring men who are the bone and sinew of the country, its defenders in time of war, and whose strong arms develope its resources in time of peace, have been neglected by the law-makers of the land, and we are glad to know that they have taken their cause into their own hands, and propose to demand and receive their rights. If they remain united, they will succeed.

COX, the Ohio carpet-bagger, whom the Free Traders of New York have sent to Congress, is a fine representative of his constituency. When the revised Tariff bill was reported in the House by Mr. Schenck, "Mr. Cox," the report says, "inquired whether the bill reported was not an aggravation of the present monopolizing fraudulent, scoundrelly system of tariff now existing."

To Mr. Cox, the present Tariffs deserve all these epithets. They are "monopolizing." They are "fraudulent." They are "scoundrelly." Of course. But if our rolling mills, foundries and factories, our ship yards and shops all be closed, by the untaxed competition of foreign cheap labor, and Mr. Cox's constituents, the New York dealers, make more money by importing the foreign productions, then would the Ohioan be delighted. What say American workmen in reply to that idea of Mr. Cox?

Protection Favors the Poor Man.

The protective tariff policy, says the Toledo Blade, favors the poor man.—Free trade taxes, or desires to tax heavily, the poor man's luxuries, tea and coffee, articles which we do not produce. No industry is benefited by taxing them. Protection says, leave the poor man's luxuries untaxed, but lay duties on every article which comes into competition with his industry. As we have often showed, the duties we lay on foreign manufactures does not increase the cost to the consumer, when they are brought into competition with American manufactures. In the absence of the American production the foreign producer, or his agent, the importer, puts up the price to the highest per cent. of profit the market will bear.

When they meet the American article, however, of equal grade, they can go no higher than it is afforded in the market. Nearly every article of our manufacture is now offered by importers at rates largely reduced below what they were held at before our protective policy gave our manufactures a chance to compete with foreign articles. We mentioned the other day the new manufacture of bagging from flax fiber, which reduced the price of imported gunny bags from thirty-seven to twenty-eight cts. But take off the duty altogether and the British article can be sold at a price below what the American manufacturer, with our high prices for labor, interest, rents, &c., can afford to make it.—But the moment the American competition is broken down the importer will put it up to the highest point the actual demand will permit.

The labor of the country is immensely interested in the maintenance of our protective system. Capital can repair its losses in new enterprises and speculations, but when the arts of foreign capitalists and monopolists shall prostrate the various industries which create the existing remunerative demand for labor, what have free traders to offer the poor man by way of subsistence? Nothing but the lands of the West. All men are not farmers. All do not desire to occupy their minds or their hands in that direction. And even if they did, when wheat sells at forty cents per bushel in Iowa we should take the hint that the time had come when the production of that cereal was no longer a desideratum.

We call attention to this subject that the working man may keep before his mind the policy which should receive his earnest support. Protection is the poor man's policy, not that of Free Trade, which taxes his luxuries and places his labor at the mercy of foreign competitors.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—The woman's cause is surely, if not rapidly, gaining converts. The Colorado Legislature has passed an Act giving them the right of suffrage in that Territory.

The Missouri Legislature has so amended the school law of that State as to allow all women over twenty-one years, owners of property, to vote on questions affecting the raising of taxes for school purposes.

Several of the eastern States have elected women school directors.

At the late State Temperance Convention at Harrisburg, a resolution was unanimously passed, asserting the right of women to vote on the question of a prohibitory liquor law.

The lower branch of the Utah Legislature, passed an act giving the women of that Territory the same right at the ballot box as men.

In Jersey county, Ill., recently, Mrs. Amelia Hobbs was elected a Justice of the Peace, by a majority of twenty-six votes.

THE female medical students of Florence, N. J., appeared in that city, the same day that Prince Arthur arrived, in tight grey trowsers and black Kersey sacque and a woman's bonnet.

The journals of the place mildly remonstrated against this invasion of fashion, and man's prerogatives.

This brought a pronunciamento from the lady students. It was brief, feeling, definite and conclusive. It was as follows:

"No woman who does not wear the Florence costume can be healthy herself or give birth to a healthy child."

The fiat has been issued. Good-bye dazzling silks, fluttering plumes, and lovable morning laces. We are human, and accept the situation—tight grey trowsers and Kersey coats—ugh!

COAL.—If our correspondent "Co-operator," whose communication appears in our local columns this week, is correct in his figures, we can see no reason why coal should be so high, in this place. If his statements be correct, then as he suggests, it would evidently pay the consumers of coal to club together, and thus supply themselves directly from the mines.

There certainly could be no objection to this, except that Shortlidge & Co., have gone to great expense to furnish the people with good and dry coal, and we hold that men who are engaged in any business in our midst, should, upon the principle of protection to home industry, be supported, so long as they deal fairly with all. Third: our correspondent might find it very difficult to procure cars.

—The travel toward the Pacific is unusually heavy this week. The trains carry a greater number of passengers than ever before. Passengers from Montana report large quantities of snow on the west side of the mountains. On the east side less snow has fallen than for many years.

AG'L COLLEGE, Feb. 14th, 1870.

MESSRS. EDS:—Will you be so kind as to grant me a little space in your paper, to resent an insult to myself and neighbors who reside in the 'barrens,' which appeared in the last number of the National. I am not overly sensitive, nor am I easily provoked, and I am certainly, as you very well know, exceedingly fond of a joke; but when I see an article published in one of our county papers, evidently intended to make the impression that the people of Harris, Ferguson and Halfmoon townships, are a mean and penurious class of people—mean, because they take a paper, and penurious, because they do not pay for it—or, in the second place, to convey the idea that our citizens are all too poor, or too niggardly mean to pay for a paper after having subscribed for it. I cannot, in justice to myself and neighbors, permit it to pass without resenting it as best I can.

You know as well as I do, that the "Barrens," and Harris, Ferguson and Halfmoon townships, contain as respectable and wealthy people as any portion of Centre county; yet strangers reading the National would naturally conclude that we are not only mean, but poor and beggarly.

In that account given in the National, the Editor says he visited 50 or 51 of his subscribers, and only received $4,50. This is certainly not saying much for the character and standing of his subscribers. I think it will be a long time before he will collect another $4,50 in the territory referred too.

I think if the Editor had not spent so much for "incidentals," which evidently effected his brains, (if he has any), he would not have published such a meanly insulting account of his trip. Or it may be that he became so outraged at the people because they did not take his paper at all, that he concluded he could publish this insult without any of us seeing it; or, it may be that he thought the people in the "Barrens," were too ignorant to see the point.

Be kind enough to publish this in your paper, and in conclusion I would say, that I will send you, in a few days, a list of subscribers to your paper, with the money for the same.

Yours Respectfully,

J. F.

COL. W. W. BROWN:

Dear Sir:—Will you be kind enough to send me some petitions in favor of the Mechanics Lien Law, recently published in your paper. It is the very law that we need, and we are all going in for it, and if Mr. Meyer, don't exert himself in having the bill passed, he need not ask our votes the second time. We feel under obligations to you for calling our attention to it and for your efforts in behalf of the laboring man's cause, and are determined to sustain you. To prove to you that our words mean something, you will find enclosed $14.00, for which you will send seven copies of the Republican, for one year, to the persons whose names are enclosed. With much Respect, I remain.

Yours, &c.

MERCANTILE FAILURES.—The number of buisness failures in this country in 1857 were 4 932, their liabilities amounting to $231,753,000. The number of failures in 1861 were 6,933. Their liabilities amounted to $207,210 000.

The failures in 1869 numbered 2,-799, leaving liabilities to the amount of $75,054,000. The greatest depression was in 1857 and 1861. As most of the business men weathered that storm and the country shares a greater development since, we think their will not be much trouble to weather any financial storm that broken down politicians and 20 per cent Shylocks may endeavor to bring on the country. Our national finances are improving, exports are gaining on our imports, the South is re-cuperating and we cannot see any sign of any impending disasters. All the evil prophecies of dyspeptic minds have thus far failed and the country will steadily continue to march on in the road of prosperty.

—The Fifteenth Amendment will confer the ballot on not less than 900, 000 negroes, all but 100,000 of whom are in the South. It revolutionizes politics in Kentucky, and probably secures for the Republicans one, if not two Congressional districts, now represented by the Democrats. With the negroes voting, Maryland stands a good chance of becoming a Republican State. Owing to the ill usage they have received from the Democratic party since the latter recovered power, the Maryland blacks will, to a man, vote the Republican ticket.

—The manufactories and wholesale houses in Logansport, Indiana, sold in 1869 over $1,000,000 worth of materials and goods. There have been erected during the year one hundred and twenty-four houses, at an expenditure of $385,600. The total amount of business for the year foots up to $2,333,000.

Bellefonte has better facilities for manufacturing purposes than Logansport, but her people do not possess the amount of vim nor comprehend their own interest as well as the citizens of Logansport.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, Feb. 8th, the resolutions of the Iowa Legislature, ratifying the XVth Amendment, were presented. A resolution was passed providing for the consideration of Indian treaties in open session. The Census bill was discussed, but no vote was reached.

In the House, notice was given of a bill providing that Committees for the consideration of contested seats shall be chosen by ballot. The Covode-Foster contested seat was discussed, but no decisive action was taken.

The census bill passed by the House was laid on the table in the Senate Feb 9th, by the decided vote of 40 to 9. The bill, though carefully drawn, was impracticable in many respects, and would have necessitated the creation of an army of officials almost equal to the internal revenue law. The Southern Senators say it could not have been executed in the South owing to the shortness of the time allotted for making the enumeration. The old law of 1850 is, owing to the failure of the bill, again in force, and the census for the present year will be taken under its provisions.

The House spent three hours and a half to-day in discussing the contested election case of Covode versus Foster, from the Twenty first district of Pennsylvania. The debate was carried on by Messrs. Randall, Stiles, and Cessna, from Pennsylvania, and Poland of Vermont. Churchill of N. Y., Burr of Illinois, Pains of Wisconsin, and Garfield of Ohio. The case elicited much interest by the Democrats. His friends, however, rallied to his support; and able arguments were made in his favor, especially by Mr. Cessna of Penn'a. The resolution awarding the seat to Mr. Covode was adopted by a vote of 118 to 45, and at half past three he was sworn in. He was warmly congratulated by his friends, especially the Pennsylvania delegation.

SENATE.—A resolution relative to Cuba was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, on the 11th, after which the franking privilege bill was discussed until the expiration of the morning hour, at which time the Mississipi bill was taken up and considered until 4.35 P. M., when a message announcing the death of Representative B. F. Hopkins was received from the House. After the usual resolutions the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—A number of petitions and bills were introduced on the 11th, inst., House went into Committee of the. Whole on the legislative appropriation bill. At the time of raising the question had not been disposed of. The House, at 3.30 P. M., adjourned after passing the usual resolutions of condolence and respect on the death of Representative B. F. Hopkins.

WASHINGTON, Feb 11.—Senator Sherman made a bold strike in the Senate to day for Cuban recoguition, by offering a resolution that the United States recognize the existence of the state of war in Cuba, and that belligerents, rights be extended to the insurgents, and that hereafter the United States will observe strictly such rules of international law as are applicable to belligerents. In offering the resolution, Mr. Sherman said that the people in his section of the country would not tolerate much longer the coldness at present exhibited by this government towards a people struggling for independence, and that the same aid should be allowed the latter as is now afforded Spain.

Mr. Sumner said that the Committee on Foreign Relations were now considering this whole question: but if the Senator from Ohio had any information going to show that there was an actual state of war in Cuba, the Committee would like to have it, as they had, up to the present time, been unable to obtain any facts indicating the existence of war.

Mr. Sherman replied that the fact of thirty gunboats being built in this country for Spain to suppress the rebellion was evidence that war existed.

Senator Howard advocated extending belligerent rights if a war existed, and he thought the subject ought to be carefully looked into.

Mr. Sumner said he also would favor such recognition if a state of war could be shown.

Mr. Sherman, at this state of the debate, consented to allow his resolution to go to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The debate to-day would seem to indicate that the recent murder of Americans in Havana has materially strengthened the Cuban cause here, and awakened those who heretofore have taken no active interest in the question.

The coin balance in the U. States Treasury to-day is fifty-three million dollars. The currency balance is nearly thirteen millions. The gold certificates on hand amount to about fifty million dollars.

The bill abolishing the franking privilege was debated about an hour in the Senate, and then went over until Monday—or untill it is called up again.

Mr. Drake advocated his amendment allowing free exchange newspapers, while Senator Sherman thought papers ought to go free through the mails only in the county where published.

Senator Conkling did not believe that this bill ought to be given for discussion, in order that a bill such as is demanded could be matured.

An official statement shows that the receipts of internal revenue for the year ending with December was from all sources, and from New York with the exception of the December returns from the First and Thirteenth Districts for that month, $36,500,000.

THREE Houses for rent in a good neighborhood. Apply to A. B. HUTCHISON.

A. J. GRAHAM & Co., have recently opened a new store in Philipsburg.

MESSRS. Huxthal & Co. have established a match factory at Snow Shoe.

THE Methodists of Philipsburg, have commenced the erection of a new church.

LAST weeks Huntingdon Globe, contained a well written recommendation of the European Mail.

ONE hundred and twenty-seven members were lately added to the M. E. church of Huntingdon.

A PROTRACTED meeting is being held at Centre Hill, and great interest in religion is being manifested by the citizens of that locality.

JOHN SWOPE, of Milesburg, recently killed a calf, the hide of which weighed 101 pounds, the calf weighed 547 pounds and was 15 months old.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Reesman of Centre Hall, this county, received, last week, severe burns from a vessel of coal tar taking fire in his shop.

KYLERTOWN, Clearfield county has a recruiting office for the raising of a company of soldiers to aid the Patriots cause in Cuba. Good for Kylertown.

MR. HUNTER, at the Agricultural College has disposed of his interest in carrying the mail from this place to Pine Grove Mills, to Mr. James Jack, of the same place.

POTTER CASE AGAIN.—We hear it rumored that the Potter will case is to turn up in a new phase, by Mr. Potter moving to Ohio and after becoming a citizen of that state, instituting a suit in the U. S. Court.

AN interesting scene of "unpleasantness" came off on Spring st., the other evening between two pugilistically inclined individuals. The smaller one came out of the contest less demoralized than his larger opponent.

BY a report of a collecting tour of our cotemporary, we learn that in the neighborhood of the Agricultural College, Gould is at a discount and not receivable by the citizens, they prefering greenbacks to adulterated coin.

IN LUCK.—Mr. J. M. Kepler, of Philipsburg, is the happy owner of an oil well on the McCray farm, that produces twenty barrels per day, he also owns 15 acres of undeveloped oil land on the same farm, which will eventually prove valuable.

THE choir of the M. E. church, of this place one evening last week enjoyed the luxury of a sleigh ride to Centre Hill, where they refreshed the inner person with the good things of this earth and returned in the "wee hours of the morning."

SOME individual in Philipsburg, not having the fear of the law sufficiently impressed on his mind, or having no scrip in his purse, and standing in need of light, appropriated, we believe that is the word, a can of coal oil to his own use at the store of D. S. Dubree & Co., of that place.

"THE CRAMPS."—This disease is becoming quite prevalent in this neighborhood, and can now be ranked as contageous. Most everyone is cramped just now to find the necessary scrip to liquidate their obligations. By each one endeavoring to pay what he can, the disease can be abated to a great extent.

ENGINE.—H. D. Landis, Master Mechanic of the B. & S. S. Rail Road, has for sale a neat engine of his own manufacture. Persons wishing an engine for printing purposes would find this just the thing for a power press. For further particulars call at the Snow Shoe Engine House or address, H. D. Landis, Bellefonte, Pa.

WE advise Editors outside of Bellefonte, not to place too much reliance on the stories published about the discovery of a wonderful mammoth cave near this place. The aforesaid cave not being large enough for a cheap boy of five years of age, to crawl into ten feet from its mouth. In fact, it is nothing but a vacancy in the rocks, which is often found where limestone abounds. Those who first made the "wonderful" discovery, and afterwords published it, are in the habit of seeing many things not visible by other mortals, unless completely saturated with Benzine tanglefoot.

BELLEFONTE MILL.—This mill we are pleased to learn is doing, under its present management, a very extensive business. Messrs. J. M. Wagner, C. T. Gerberich and G. W. Scholl, trading under the firm name of J. M. Wagner & Co., have leased this mill for a term of years. In another column of the Republican will be seen their advertisement. From it our farmers will learn that they buy grain of all kinds for which they pay the highest market price in greenbacks whenever demanded. They are honest reliable men are well known in our community and need no recommendation or encomiums from us.

RAIL ROAD.—In accordance with a previous anouncement a Railroad meeting was held on the 11th inst., in the Academy Building, Boalsburg. S. H. Stover, Esq., having been elected President—the meeting proceeded to business.

On motion, A. B. Hutchison, Esq., was called upon to address the meeting, which he did in a very earnest and forcible manner, calling upon the farmers of Harris township, and of Penns Valley to subscribe liberally, so as to place beyond a reasonble doubt the speedy completion of the road. He said the valley must have a Rail Road and the people of this rich valley are abundantly able to grade it—the money given will, he said, be expended among you—you will get it all back in profits on products and trade. The people are not required to pay out this money all at once—it will be called for and paid in instalments. In instalments you will get it all back, with more than 50 per cent. upon your investment. The completion of this road, he said, will enhance the value of your lands from 25 to 150 per cent. You would raise more in cash, in case of war to get out of a draft, or to defend, like true patriots your country rather than see it laid waste. Why then will you not do as much to enrich yourselves and to improve your lovely valley? This road must be built now—now or never. He said he was satisfied Harris township would do her whole duty in this matter, as her people were never behind in any good word or work.

Geo. F. Miller, Esq., then set forth the offer of the Penn'a R. R. Co., giving cost of grading on estimates made by engineers—gave a full and correct history of Rail Roads and their profits—an estimate of freight awaiting carriage, and eloquently urged the citizens to embrace this, their last opportunity.

He showed clearly and conclusively, that the farmers—the wealthy and independent people of Penns and Buffalo valleys could build this road, or do all that it was necessary for them to do, to secure the road, without embarrassing themselves, or feeling it in a pecuniary point of view. He assured them that their stock would pay, that the Penn'a R. R. Co. would finish, stock and run the road when graded—the grading being all, the people along the route was asked, or expected to do. This road once finished, he said, they would have a line shorter and more valuable for through trade than could be found anywhere else. His arguments were strong and conclusive. He was frequently applauded.

J. G. Love Esq., next addressed the meeting, arguing forcibly that it was the duty of their citizens now to bend all their energies to the consumation of this great work, as it would be the only chance they would have to secure so great a blessing to themselves and to their children. Mr. Love spoke with great energy, using all the arguments that could in any way be brought to bear upon the minds of the people or to urge them on to action—in the speedy completion of the road. He was frequently applauded.

The meeting was well attended and Harris township, has almost succeeded in raising her fair quota. The prospects are brightening.

On the 12th inst a meeting was held at Centre Hall. Col Josiah Neff was elected President; Henry Witmor and Maj. Jno. Neff, Vice Presidents, and F. Kurtz, Secretary. The meeting being ready for business, loud calls were made for E. Blanchard, Esq., who responded in an able and argumentative speech in favor of building the road and building it now. He showed conclusively that the farmers of Penns Valley could do all that was required of them to secure the road, and assured them if they would only do their duty, that they would find themselves much happier and richer for having done so. Mr. Blanchard made a powerful speech, and it is not too much to say that it had a telling effect upon the audience.

He was followed by Geo. F. Miller, Esq., who appeared to be, more than ever in earnest. He urged the people to speedy action, and while he used many of the same arguments, as at Boalsburg, he added many new and if possible stronger reasons, upon the wealthy farmers of Potter township, urging them to subscribe liberally, and pleading with them, not to let this golden opportunity pass by, perhaps forever.

Wm. P. Wilson, Esq., was then loudly called upon. Mr. Wilson stated that he was greatly in favor of the road—that he would do all in his power to aid in its speedy completion; but he could not see what argument he could bring stronger than those already offered by Messrs. Blanchard and Miller in favor of the road. He said, that the intelligent and wealthy farmers of Potter township, and of Penns Valley all knew as well as he, that it was to their interest to build this road. Mr. Wilson, as it was late spoke but a few minutes, but in that short time, gave some excellent and strong arguments in favor of the speedy completion of the road.

The people of Penns Valley, in the opinion of the editors of the REPUBLICAN, should lose no time in subscribing the necessary amount to grade the road. The money spent in this way, we can assure our Penns Valley friends, will be like bread cast upon the waters. We have not space to say more at this time, and are right sorry that we could not be present at all these meetings.

IT is a generally conceeded fact by all classes of our citizens, except some of the owners of our cotemporary, that Horace Greely spoke the truth when he told its editor, "that if he would keep out his editorials he would have a chance to publish something in his paper." This idea properly belongs to the Watchman, but it is true nevertheless.

SERVICES by Rev. Mr. Shoemaker, on next Sunday, at 10½ o'clock, a. m., at Reformed church, Lion street.

CHESTER WHITE HOGS.—Six hogs of the pure Chester White breed, from stock presented by N. P. Boyer & Co., of Chester county, were slaughtered at the Agricultural College on the 8th inst., weighing in the aggregate 2192 pounds, and averaging 365 1 3 pounds each—their respective weights being 290, 301, 331, 352, 425 and 493 pounds.

Twenty hogs have been killed at the College this winter, their total weight being 5068 pounds. Fourteen were half blood Chester Whites averaging 201 pounds each. These were killed earlier in the season than the pure bloods; but were of about the same age and keep.—Yet when killed their average weight was fully 50 pounds less each, than that of the pure bloods at the same time. With the above facts we received a nice supply of sausage and Chester White meat, for which we would thank the person who sent it if we knew who he was. We suppose whoever sent us the sausage &c., had seen Mr. Brainerd while in that neighborhood on his collecting tour "go in" on one of his "Square meals," and judged from that circumstance that the editors in Bellefonte must all be a half-starved tribe. Well no matter. Thanks gentlemen, thanks.

"KEEP HIM DOWN."—When a poor man attempts to rise—attempts to show that there is no monopoly of genius, and that God hath given as free and noble a soul to the lowly as to the great—he is not only opposed by the class above him, but envy and scorn are but too often his portion among his fellows. They do not like to see themselves outstripped by one whom they have reckoned no better than themselves, and instead of encouraging, they damp his ardor and grieve his heart with sneers, and cold, because envious, counsel. The next class above him love not to see a man who has naught to boast of but a noble soul, no treasures save those of mind, presuming to take his place among them and there is one universal shout of "Keep him down!" This upward struggle which the poverty-struck genius has to endure—the struggle against prejudice and misrepresentation and want—has daunted many a mind, and discouraged many a breast, and has kept many a man formed to be a light to the world in poverty and darkness to the end of his days. Because of this many a noble spirit has concealed its own flame of brightness; many noble and free men, of whom the world was not worthy, have gone down into the grave with all the wisdom of their souls untold—"have died, and made no sign."

Public Sales.

Hereafter all persons having their sale bills printed at this office, will receive a gratuitous notice in this column; and they can get better work at more reasonable rates than at any other office in the county.

——There will be a public sale of horses, buggies, farming utensils and household an kitchen furniture, at the late residence of R. V. Miller, dec'd., in Spring township, on Wednesday, March 24 1870.

——Persons wishing to purchase a good brood mare, horses, cows, farming implements, or anything used for farming purposes, or on the road, should not forget to attend the vendue of A. A. Henderson, on Slab Cabin Branch, on Saturday, February 25 h, 1870.

——We call the attention of our readers to an Orphans' Court sale advertised in another column of to-days paper. See also, large posters.

——Mr. D. S. Erb, one of the most accommodating of men, who resides on the Mayes farm in Ferguson township, will sell at auction, at his residene, on Tuesday, March 1st, 1870, his entire stock of farming utensils, horses, cattle, hogs and household furniture. His stock is of the best quality and his farm implements nearly new. He proposes to give buyers a credit of eighteen months.

——Mr. Wm. Dale, at the End of the Mountain, will sell at public sale, at his residence, Tuesday, March 1st, '70, a large lot of stock, farming implements, etc. No doubt Mr. Dale will find ready buyers, as he is well known as a good farmer.

Coal Monopolies.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Why is it that our mechanics and citizens will suffer themselves to be imposed upon, year after year, in paying an exhorbitant price for their coal? Coal was retailed in this place, this winter, as high as $9,25 per ton, of twenty hundred weight. While at the Scranton and other mines it has averaged, during the winter $2,25 per ton, of twenty-two hundred and forty-seven pounds. The freight on a ton of coal from Scranton to this place is about $2,50, making the total cost delivered here $4,75 per ton of twenty-two hundred and 47 pounds, which gives our coal dealers the snug profit of $4,50 and $5,00 per ton, when coal retails here for $9,25 per ton of twenty hundred weight.

Now, as nearly every mechanic has very little money to spare, and knows about the amount of coal he consumes during the winter, we would suggest to them the propriety of clubbing to-gether and place their money in some responsible persons hands and let him purchase their coal for them at the mines. By doing so they would receive over eighty eight hundred weight of coal for the trifling sum of $19,00 which amount would be sufficient to last any common sized family through the season, and would be a saving to them of more than $20,00 each.

We throw out these suggestions at the request of several persons who are now ready to join a club of this description, and hope other mechanics will respond.

CO-OPERATOR.

GROCERY STORE.—The attention of our readers is invited to the advertisement of Messrs. Sechler & Co., No. 6, in the Bush House. These gentlemen have constantly on hand everything usually kept in a Grocery Store, and our readers will find them right clever men.

HARD TIMES.—Folks about Milesburg and Central City, need to nail things sure to keep them from being stolen. The thieves are now going the rounds and the sooner you lose something the better. Last Saturday night, one of these self-marauders had the boldness and impudence to enter Mrs. Captain Dolan's laundry and take therefrom a crock of her best (not worst meat) meat together with a lot of cakes, pies and some butter. A return of the crock will doubtless be satisfactory as the parties are supposed to be well known.

On the same evening there seems to have been quite a jolly time in the barber shop of that quiet little borough. A general struggle ensued between the barber and a customer, resulting in what may be termed a badly worsted and sprained ankle, on the part of the customer. So much for a little nonsense now and then relished by some foolish men.

No communications last week—all swept out—plenty of stamps on hand—how are you Horace G., call again, don't forget friends.

A MERITORIOUS ARTICLE.—We are tired of this idea of "puffing" humbug medicines that are constantly thrown into drug stores, and are merely an imposition upon comunity. But, when an article comes into the market that is really worthy of comment, we are happy to make public acknowledgement, trusting that some benefit may arise therefrom. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., is the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and we take pleasure in calling attention to it because we know it to be an article, and a sure cure for that loathsome disease, Catarrh. It is sold by most Druggists, or may be obtained for Sixty Cents through the mail by addressing the proprietor as above.—Cleveland Herald. v2n7-2t.

NEW BOOT AND SHOE STORE.—Notwithstanding the howling of the Democratic Watchman on hard times, our business men are all awake to their interests.

Messrs. John Powers and Frank McClain—Powers & McClain—have just opened in the McClain Block, opposite the Bush House, a new Boot & Shoe Store.

Mr. Powers is well known in this place as one of the best practical workmen—a boot and shoemaker hard to beat.

These gentlemen, Powers & McClain, will make a strong and an obliging firm. It is with pleasure we recommend them. Advertisement next week.

DR. WITMOR, of Philadelphia, will be at the Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte, February 21st, for one week, to consult with patients of all diseases; best reference from professors of Philadelphia and the State, as to skill in treatment of diseases. Over twenty years in regular practice. See advertisement in another column.

INCOME Return to be made before March 1st.

VALENTINE.—On the 3d, inst., Evan Pugh, aged 2 years, 1 month, and 9 days. and Jennie Kenny, aged 1 year, 9 months, and 19 days, only children of Bond and Mattie Valentine.

Our babes have gone; in life's sweet bloom
Not to the cold, dark tomb,
But far beyond the sky,
Where pleasures never die.
They live among the spirits of the just.

Our babes have gone; and we shall miss
Their fond caress and good night kiss;
Their sweet and winning smile
And artless ways, so pure, so void of guile:
For they were very dear perchance too dear.

Our babes have gone; but, round their way
There shone from heaven a ray
Of glory bright, to light them home,
To sing God's praise before the throne,
Clad in bright robes far brighter than the sun

Our babes have gone; but why should we Sit down and weep! It must not be,
For God is good, and knew just when to say
Unto our loved ones, "Come away."

Farewell sweet babes; 't will not be long
E're we shall join that throng
Gone home through grace Divine,
And strike our harps in unison with thine.
'Till then we'll wait, nor grieve that thou art gone.

Select Poetry.

LIGHT FOR ALL.

You cannot pay with money
The million sons of toil—
The sailor on the ocean,
The peasant on the soil,
The laborer in the quarry,
The beaver of the coal,
Your money pays the hand,
But it cannot pay the soul.

The workshops must be crowded,
That the palace may be bright;
If the plowman did not plow,
Then the poet could not write;
Then let every toil be hallowed
That man performs for man.
And have its share of honor,
As part of the great plan.

The man who turns the soil
Need not have earthly mind;
The digger 'mid the coal,
Need not be in spirit blind;
The mind can shed a light
On each worthy labor done,
As lowliest things are bright
In the radiance of the sun.

What cheers the musing student,
The poet, the divine?
The thought that for his followers
A brighter day will shine.
Let every human laborer
Enjoy the vision bright,
Let the thought that comes from Heaven
Be spared like Heaven's own light!

Ye men who hold the pen,
Rise like a band inspired;
And poets, let your lyres
With hope for man be fired!
Till the earth become a temple,
And every human heart,
Shall join in one great service,
Each happy in his part.

Agricultural Department.

A Farmer's Study.

Have you any room about the house that answers the place of study? If you have not, you want one. Every farmer, who claims to be anything else than a mere laborer, needs a study as much as any professional man does; and for that matter, he requires it more. The farmer's home is not ordinarily a very quiet one. There is much work to do in it; there is the clatter of milk pans; the noise of the churn; the prattle, if not the crying of the children. It is hard for any one to make much headway in mastering the contents of a book under such circumstances. It is "the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties." An editor might write, or a lawyer might study, under such circumstances, because they have become accustomed to intellectual labor amid noise and confusion. Necessity compelled them to labor in this way, but it took a long time for them to become masters of the situation. But for all farmers to do it, whose times for study are limited, for the most part to rainy days in summer, or to the bleak, stormy seasons of winter, the thing is next to impossible. He wants a cozy little room where he can shut himself up with his books and papers.

A farmer's study need not be a very large or a very expensive affair. A room fifteen feet square would answer the purpose well. Six book shelves, which should be permanent; running across one side, would hold a respectable library and leave room for files of papers, magazines, pamphlets and farm account books. A few pictures an the other side would do for adornment. A table with drawers, a few chairs and a stove are all the furniture that is necessary. Twenty five dollars and a few days' work with the plane and hand saw would fit it up.

Such a room as this would be as a blessing to every farmer's household. The house would be more orderly, because here would be placed the books and papers that too often are scattered about, and being lost or ruined. Rainy days and winter days would be turned to as much account, with facilities for study, as are the brightest days of summer. The disposition to leave the home for the tavern or grocery would in many cases be taken away, for the reason that there is a better place to spend time that can not be employed in out door work.

Nor is it to the farmer alone that such a room would be of comfort and value. The children could use it during the evenings when they are attending school, and thus derive more benefit from each term of school. To the wife, too, such a room would be a blessing. With her manifold cares and perplexities, with the odor of the cook-room in her nostrils, with children clinging to her skirts, how pleasant would such a room be in which to retire occasionally and read a book, peruse a newspaper or write a letter to a friend.

Every thrifty, well to do farmer, who has provided a warm stable for his horses, a convenient barn for his cattle and even a commodious pen for hogs and a kennel for his dogs, can certainly afford a place of retreat for himself. It would result in having a better planned farm, a better ordered house, a happier home and cultured minds. A library of books will accumulate when there is a place to put them. Papers and magazines will be preserved when there is a place to put them on file, and spare time to put them on file, and spare time be put to good account when there is an opportunity to spend it without being interrupted.—Prairie Farmer.

Augusta, Ga., has a boy spotted like a leopard.

Scalding Milk Vessels.

It used to be the practice to scald milk pans and milk pails, and it is the practice yet.

Why is it done? There is no "science" about it; philosophy has not led to engage in what they don't understand, yet, which was and is a great good? It is experience. It has been found that scalding a vessel with hot water will have an effect that can not otherwise be obtained

What is the effect? Simply the destruction of little spores of fermentation, which propagate rapidly in dirt, and in the least dirt, so little that it cannot be seen (with the naked eye.) Experience led here, and philosophy followed to corroborate it.

You cannot cleanse a vessel, then, without hot water. And this water must not only be smacking hot, biting your hand, but it must be absolutely boiling hot, up to the point. Then you will kill all the live animalculæ, otherwise, you will not.

And when the vessel is thus treated—cleaned first, and scalded afterwards—set it away to dry, and do not touch it again till it is wanted for milk. Milk, remember, is a powerful absorbent, like charcoal, or plaster, or earth; and it will hold what it gets, improving on the rankness. In winter this is less the case, yet it is the case; in summer it is all important to attend to it.

How necessary then to see that the hands having the handling of milk in charge, are to be trusted. This is as necessary as any thing, and is the first necessity—the necessityon which hang the rest.

The dirt being away, the air must be pure.

This you cannot scald; you must therefore resort to other means—and these means are, not a confined bad air of the cellar or milk rooms especially foul with vegetable odors; nor the aroma of the dunghill; the rank, urinal steam of the stables; nor in the case of a cheese factory, the proximity to a pig pen; but in avoidance of all of them—for these things will as certainly affect the milk as the dirt left in the pan.

An absolute freedom from everything that is offensive in order or flavor, is the requisite to prime cheese, or a first quality of butter. Who has not detected the common taint of the stables in the milk and cream? Can this be endured.

Butter kept in the room over night with the family (in winter), is not fit to use. It has absorbed so much of the odors that it has become foul. The taste of the bad air is plainly preceptible. But cover your butter plate (not an old one) with tight dish—say a tin basin, and your butter will be found much the same as when it was placed. It is, however, only perfect when kept—not occasionally put—in pure air. House keepers take note. When once tainted it can never be cured, but tenaciously holds all it has, and gets all it can. Like charcoal, or gypsum, or earth, it is a powerful absorber. From the time it is gathered in the cow until it is eaten in the family, the greatest care must be given to the elacteal product. Not only that, it reaches still farther; the food, the water must not possess the odor. But generally the worst is in the vessels and the atmosphere that comes in contact with it. These, at least if impure, impart their impurity, however impure, the milk may have been before.—Prairie Farmer.

LET HORSES HAVE THEIR NATURAL GAIT.—It is bad policy to move a team out of its natural gait, especially with a load. It is far better to put on a full load, and even a little more and give the horses their own time for moving it to its place of destination, than to make two loads of it and hurry them. There is a certain degree of rapidity of action peculiar to the muscles of each class of animals, and indeed to each individual animal, and if they are pressed beyond this, fatigue follows quickly, while within this limit great endurance is witnessed. To test this, let a man attempt to move his arms as rapidly as a bird does its wings, or his legs in walking as rapidly as a little boy, and see how rapidly he will become exhausted. This will convince him of the folly of attempting to make his heavy draft horses move with the rapidity of the pony or fast trotter. The law of nature is that heavy bodies move slowly.—North Western Farmer.

THE HORSE'S PETITION.—The following is "The Horse's Petition to his Driver," as published by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Every person having anything to do with horses should commit it to memory, and act upon the pretty appeal:

Up the hill, whip me not;
Down the hill hurry me not;
In the stable, forget me not;
Of hay and corn, rob me not;
Of clean water, stint me not;
With sponge and brush, neglect me not;
Of soft dry bed, deprive me not;
If sick or cold, chill me not;
With bit or reins, jerk me not;
And when you are angry, strike me not.

A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer, estimates the shrinkage of hogs, or the difference between the live and dead weight of a well fattened hog, at a little less than one seventh of the gross weight. He has made several tests on the average of a lot of 30 or 40 hogs.

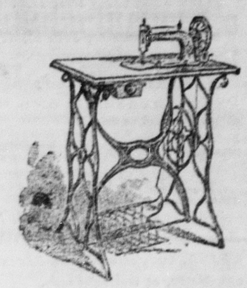
MISCELLANEOUS.

SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE



Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a destined to win much favor in the

FAMILY MACHINE,

HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quite light running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,
QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING
FELLING, GATHERING,

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortment of having been a successful teacher of Vocal and Instrumental Music—Piano, Melodian, Organ and thorough Bass—Painting and Drawing, for the last twelve years, is now prepared to admit a few more scholars to her school, upon reasonable terms.

SILK, TWIST, LINEN, OR COTTON THREAD

MUSIC, DRAWING AND PAINTING SCHOOL.

MRS. M. S. DUNHAM

Having recently received a splendid new Piano, of a celebrated Boston manufacture, which pupils not having instruments of their own to practice on, can have the use of.

Thankful for the liberal patronage heretofore received, she hopes to merit a continuance of the same. Rooms up one flight of stairs, over Centre Co. Banking House, on Allegheny street. Also, agent for all kinds of good Musical Instruments. Address, or call on her at her rooms, at Bellefonte, Pa. jy21'69-tf.
